2.4 Success rate of applicants admitted without examinations in the studies of

For the given (academic) year, the column "Admitted w/o ex." contains the number of applicants admitted without having to pass the entrance examination (those who have 12 admitted without taking the entrance examination in their admission decision). The column "Enrolled without exam." contains the number of enrolled students admitted without having to pass the entrance examination. The column "Enrolled in a different way" contains the number of enrolled students admitted through different means than having them pass the entrance examination. The entry before the slash ("/") contains data on those admitted without the entrance examination and the entry after the slash contains data on those admitted through different means. The column "Grade average" contains the average grade average of the studies which were successfully completed or remain active. The columns "Termination of studies in the term" contain the number of studies terminated in the given semester.

Year	Admitted w/o ex.	Enrolled		Grade average	Termination of studies in the term

2.5 Comparison of admission success with studies success rate

The application register is used for searching data that may represent the point evaluation of the entrance examination. The table includes those studies which have both an existing point evaluation of the entrance examination and a listed grade average. The number of studies is listed in the column "Studies", while the column "Year" is the year of admission to studies. The point evaluation and grade average are converted to the ranking in the examined group of studies. The ranking is calculated separately for each year. The column "Avg. difference" is the average difference between the rank of the studies in the entrance examination point evaluation and the rank of the studies in the grade average. A positive difference means a better ranking of grade average and worse ranking in the point evaluation of the entrance examination. The columns "Difference distribution" contain the frequencies of the differences on the entire axis. The left part of the axis shows better ranking at the entrance examination, while the right part shows better ranking in the studies. The column "Spear. coeff." shows the value of Spearman's rank correlation coefficient. The name of the data used for obtaining points from the admission is stated before the table.

3.7 Studies at universities in the Czech Republic after graduation

The tables contain the faculties and degree programmes that were or are being studied by graduates of the selected plans. The information on subsequent studies after graduation available to the university are only those in its own information system. As a result, information on subsequent studies at other universities are usually available only if the student concurrently studies at MU as well as the other university. Only full other studies are included (and therefore not the second plans of major/minor studies). This includes only those studies which were started no sooner than the day the studies of the selected plan at MU had been completed. 3.8 Transferred study plans

The table contains the plans/field to which the studies of the selected plan have transferred. The table does not show studies fail rate; as showing transfers between universities is impossible due to unavailable data, only the transfers within the university are processed. The year is academic year of admission to studies of the selected study plans at MU. The semester is the semester in which the transfer took place

Year	Term	Quantity	Plan

4 Studies failure rate

4.1 Studies success rate

The column "Enrolled in the 1st term" contains the number of studies that were enrolled in the first semester of in the academic year stated in the first column. The column "Enrolled in the 3rd term" contains the number of studies that successfully completed the first year of studies and have enrolled in the third semester. The column "Fail rate after the 1st year" shows a representation in percentages of those studies that were not enrolled in the third semester. The column "Graduated within the std. length" includes studies that have successfully completed their studies in the standard time of studies increased by three months. The column "Graduates" contains all successfully completed studies.

Year	Enrolled	Enrolled	Fail rate	Graduated within the std. length		Graduates

4.2 Failed courses during termination of studies

The following table contains a list of courses that students failed in the same semester their studies were terminated. The stated semester is the semester of both failing the course and terminating the studies. If a student terminated their studies between May and October, the completion type will be counted for the spring/summer semester. If a student terminated their studies between November and April, the completion type will be counted for the autumn/winter semester. The courses are sorted according to the number of failed completions in the given semester.

No match has been found.

4.3 Reasons for terminating studies in terms

The table displays the number of ended studies sorted according to the completion type and semesters. The left column shows in which semester of their studies students enrolled in. The horizontal list shows in which semester the studies were ended (or if it is still ongoing in the current semester). The order of the semester is calculated according to the actual length of the studies (the period of interrupted studies does not count toward this length), and is understood as the rounded share of the days of the studies divided by 180 days. Therefore, the zero semester is the period at the very beginning of the studies.
