

CZS13 Development of Ethnic Relations in the Czech Republic

The aim of the course is to make the students consider the usual topics traditionally introduced in relation to debate about ethnicity, ethnic relations, nationalism or racism. It tries to bring them closer to the world of ethnic minorities (especially the Roma) in the Czech Republic, and to help them appreciate the variety of influences – cultural, political and economical, which are created through these relations.

Seminar tasks

For each class, students are expected to read the materials designated as “Assigned reading”, which will form the basis for class discussion. The texts marked “additional reading” are recommended to students particularly interested in the subject of the lecture in question and are not included in this reader.
