

CONTENTS

Lecture 1 - Introduction. A general view to the history of Czech cinema, periodization. The silent era. Gustav Machatý: Erotikon (1929), Extase (1933). The sound era 1930–1945. Martin Frič: Kristian (1939).

Lecture 2 - The post-war era, socialist realism and historical movies. Martin Frič: The Emperor's Baker – The Baker's Emperor (1951); Otakar Vávra: The Hussite Trilogy (1954–1956).

Lecture 3 - The beginning of the „thaw“. Vojtěch Jasný: When the Cat Comes (Až přijde kocour, 1963).

Lecture 4 - The holocaust theme in Czech cinema. Alfred Radok: Distant Journey (1949). Ján Kádár & Elmar Klos: The Shop on Main Street (Obchod na korze, 1965).

Lecture 5 - An introduction to Czech New Wave. Věra Chytilová: Daisies (Sedmikrásky, 1966).

Lecture 6 - František Vlácil: Marketa Lazarová (1967).

Lecture 7 - Czech New Wave. Miloš Forman: Firemen's Ball (Hoří, má panenko, 1967).

Lecture 8 - The genre movies – musicals, comedies, fairy tales, detective stories.

Lecture 9 - Vojtěch Jasný: All My Good Countrymen (Všichni dobří rodáci, 1968).

Lecture 10 - A time of servants: the normalization period

Lecture 11 - The velvet revolution and after

Lecture 12 - Contemporary Czech cinema.

Dates

1. 19. 9. Introduction. A general view to the history of Czech cinema, periodization. The silent era. Gustav Machatý: Erotikon (1929), Extase (1933). The sound era 1930–1945. Martin Frič: Kristian (1939).
2. 26. 9. The post-war era, socialist realism and historical movies. Martin Frič: The Emperor's Baker – The Baker's Emperor (1951); Otakar Vávra: The Hussite Trilogy (1954–1956).
3. 10. The beginning of the „thaw“. Vojtěch Jasný: When the Cat Comes (Až přijde kocour, 1963).
4. 10. 10. The holocaust theme in Czech cinema. Alfred Radok: Distant Journey (1949). Ján Kadár & Elmar Klos: The Shop on Main Street (Obchod na korze, 1965).
5. 17. 10. An introduction to Czech New Wave. Věra Chytilová: Daisies (Sedmikrásky, 1966).
6. 24. 10. František Vlácil: Marketa Lazarová (1967).
7. 31. 10. Czech New Wave. Miloš Forman: Firemen's Ball (Hoří, má panenko, 1967).
8. 11. The genre movies – musicals, comedies, fairy tales, detective stories.
9. 14. 11. Vojtěch Jasný: All My Good Countrymen (Všichni dobří rodáci, 1968).
10. 21. 11. A time of servants: the normalization period.
11. 28. 11. The velvet revolution and after.
12. 5. 12. Contemporary Czech cinema.