Process description

We are a company producing chilli based products. This process focuses on the part of tasting and bottling of the sauces. In order for the sauce to be bottled, it needs to be approved by our taster. As the customer's company can request custom bottles, there bottles must be in stock, once the bottling should take place. If they're not, the supplier must be contacted with a new order. Only when the custom bottles and caps are delivered, the bottling can start again.
