Conceptual Model of Service Quality
Gap 1: The difference between management perceptions of what customers expect and what customers really expect

Gap 2: The difference between management perceptions and service quality specifications - the standards gap

Gap 3: The difference between service quality specifications and actual service delivery - are standards consistently met?

Gap 4: The difference between service delivery and what is communicated externally - are promises made consistently fulfilled?

Gap 5: The difference between what customers expect of a service and what they actually receive

- ◦ expectations are made up of past experience, word-of-mouth and needs/wants of customers
- ◦ measurement is on the basis of two sets of statements in groups according to the five key service dimensions

Problems with Gaps in Service Quality

➢Gap1: Market research gap
- ✓Management may not understand how customers formulate their expectations from past experience, advertising, communication with friends
  - ❖Improve market research
  - ❖Foster better communication between employees and its frontline employees
  - ❖Reduce the number of levels of management that distance the customer

➢Gap 2: Design gap
- ✓Management is unable to formulate target level of service to meet customer expectations and translate them to specifications
  - ❖Setting goals and standardizing service delivery tasks can close the gap

Problems with Gaps in Service Quality

- Gap 3: Conformance gap
  - Actual delivery of service cannot meet the specifications set by management
    - Lack of teamwork
    - Poor employee selection
    - Inadequate training
    - Inappropriate job design

- Gap 4: Communication gap
  - Discrepancy between service delivery and external communication
    - Exaggerated promises in advertising
    - Lack of information provided to contact personnel to give customers

Problems with Gaps in Service Quality

➤ Gap 5: Customer expectations and perceptions gap
  ✓ Customer satisfaction depends on minimizing the four gaps that are associated with service delivery
