

European Union Public Policy

Professor John Wilton

Lecture 2

Agenda-Setting 1: Role and purpose, EU political process, and the nature of agendas

European Union Public Policy

Lecture 2

Additional Sources:

Princen, S. (2007) ‘Agenda-setting in the E.U.: a theoretical exploration and agenda for research’, Journal of European Public Policy, 14:1, pp.21-38.

Princen, S. (2011) “Agenda-setting strategies in E.U. policy processes”, in the Journal of European Public Policy, Vol.18, no.7, pp.927-943.

Warleigh-Lack, A. and Drachenberg, R. (2011) ‘Spillover in a soft policy era? Evidence from the Open Method of Coordination in education and training’, in the Journal of European Public Policy, Vol.18, no.7, pp.999-1015

European Union Public Policy

Lecture 2

1. The place of agenda-setting in the policy process – its role and purpose
2. Agenda-setting as a political process – its distinctive aspect in the EU policy process
3. The nature of agendas – the social construction of policy issues

European Union Public Policy

Lecture 2

1. The place of agenda-setting in the policy process

- key difference between EU and individual states
- link between agenda-setting and the EU integration process

European Union Public Policy

Lecture 2

2. Agenda-setting as a political process

a) the identification, determination and clarification of the issue

b) the social and political construction of the issue

European Union Public Policy

Lecture 2

3. The nature of agendas

- differing interpretations of issues, agendas and policies
- danger of different forms of policy outcomes
- negative agenda-setting

European Union Public Policy

Lecture 2

3. The nature of agendas

- The pre-agenda process
 - contending ideas
 - advocacy
 - learning, and knowledge of -
information
 - political debate
 - political difference and/or agreement

European Union Public Policy

Lecture 2

3. The nature of agendas

- first stage of agenda-setting – social construction of the issue
- additional agenda ‘spillover’
- avoiding conflict between national interests and EU interests in agenda-setting

European Union Public Policy

Lecture 2

Summary:

1. The place of agenda-setting in the policy process
 - a) No policy outcomes can be reached without firstly the issue being placed on the EU policy agenda
 - b) Issues reach the policy agenda usually as a result of substantial political mobilisation
 - c) Specific to EU is link between agenda-setting and integration process

European Union Public Policy

Lecture 2

Summary:

2. Agenda-setting as a political process

- a) Identification, clarification, definition of an issue is open to political self-interest
- b) Definition of issue will determine which institution and organisation deals with it
- c) Issues reach EU policy agenda from long-term processes and short-term crisis processes
- d) EU Commission has initiated large ‘bundles’ of issues for EU policy agenda

European Union Public Policy

Lecture 2

Summary:

3. The nature of agendas

- a) Issues are open to differing interpretations among 28 Member states
- b) Negative as well as positive agenda-setting
- c) Complex pre-agenda process
- d) Control of ‘social construction’ of issue is key to satisfactory outcome
- e) Avoiding national interest/EU interest conflict assists speedy issue acceptance on to policy agenda