ICI Division

- International Cooperative Institutions (ICI)
 - International - affecting two or more nations, states, trade unions or non-governmental organizations
 - Cooperative - involving mutual assistance in working towards a common goal
 - Institution - a set of formal and informal rules that determine roles, behavior and action and influence expectations
- A) International Organization (NGO and IGO - Intergovernmental organization) (NATO, UN or AU)
- B) International Regime (UN Convention on Civil and Political Rights, CEFTA - Central European Free Trade Agreement)
- C) Convention (Peacekeeping)

International Organisation

- „An international organization is a stable set of norms and rules meant to govern the behavior of states and other actors in the international system.“
- International organizations are institutions = administrative apparatus, formal and material essence
- Union of International Associations/UIA – 15 types/categories of IO
 - Federation of International Organizations – UN
 - International organization with universal membership - International Labor Organization
 - International organization with intercontinental membership – NATO
 - Regionally defined organizations – AU
 - Less autonomous international organization - International Court of Justice
 - Organization with a special form - Asian Development Bank
 - Non-active organization - The Council for Mutual Economic Assistance
 - Religious, secular groups – Atheist Republic
 - Proposed organizations not yet established (International Criminal Court 1998-2002)

International Organisation

- Conditions for the existence of IO:
 - 1. goals must be international, active in at least three countries
 - 2. existence of individual or collective membership with full voting rights of members (3 states)
 - 3. the statute must provide the right to regularly elect executive bodies, leaders, the existence of a permanent headquarters
 - 4. the principle of regular rotation of top representatives
 - 5. at least 3 members must contribute to the budget
 - 6. the ability to exist independently in the international system
 - 7. carries out current independent and regular activities, establishes relationships with other organizations

International Regime

- „International organizations are generally seen to be more formally specified institutions, with a secretariat, permanent office, and the like. International regimes have been defined as sets of principle, norms, rules, and decisions upon which actors' expectations converge (Krasner 1983).“
- The definition suggests more permanence, where regimes are often temporary.
- International regimes always relate to a specific issue.
- They do not have an administration or an office.
- They are institutions with a differentiated structure that is divided into four levels: principles, norms, rules and decision-making processes.

Convention

- Ad hoc grouping, qualitatively lower grouping than the regime.
- Entities that precede regimes and organizations.
- „Conventions help to shape the actor's expectations, coordinate their behavior, enable mutual understanding of the parties even without set rules.“
- Advantageous in coordination situations - actors are interested in behaving in a certain way as long as others do.
- Example - Diplomatic immunity.

Brief History of IO

- Periodization of the evolution of IO:
 - a) Prenatal period (ICI are created very rarely, ex. Amphictyonia and Symmachia)
 - b) Early period of foundation formation (1648-1815, formation of diplomatic contacts, deepening of economic relations)
 - c) Period of the first international organizations (security, economic and social ICI, Congress of Vienna – several changes)
 - d) Period after the First World War (rapid increase of ICI, League of Nations)
 - e) Period after the Second World War (UN, monetary and economic institutions, regionalism)
 - f) Period after the end of bipolar confrontation (disintegration of bloc organizations , new ICI within Europe, massive increase of NGOs)

Security architecture and relations among states

- „An institutional system of organizing relations between states guaranteeing their security. It is based on the assumption that issues and problems related to the security of states cannot be solved individually.“
- Cooperative security - ongoing effort to reduce the risk of war that does not target a specific state or coalition of states
- Collective security - states avoid the use of force in mutual relations (two principles - the obligation to resolve all disputes by peaceful means, the prohibition of the use of force in mutual relations)
- Collective defense - system of joint defense against external threats, i.e. against attacks by states that are not members of the organization
