

Assignment 1:

Reflection Paper on what is International Social Work or Community-based practice.

Here, students can choose to write on international social work or community-based practices.

Objective: To get students to reflect on perceptions of international social work or community-based practice

Description: Write a reflection paper that presents your views of international social work or community-based practice.

✚ If you are writing about international social work, differentiate it from social work practiced within one country only. From readings and videos in this section, you can use the following questions to guide your reflection:

1. What does international social work practice mean?
2. How different is it from social work practice within one country?
3. Identify an international social work organization and discuss its role in the development and practice of international social work.

✚ If you are writing a reflection paper on community-based practice in social work, define it, discuss the importance of community-based practice in social work, and explain how social workers engage in community-based practices. You can use the reading material provided and the following questions to serve as a guide in your reflections:

1. What is community-based practice?
2. What is the importance of community-based practice in social work?
3. With some examples from your country or other countries, how do social workers engage in community-based practices?

Students must identify the specifics within the course material that influenced their responses to the above questions by citing at least two of the course readings. Reflection paper should be 3-5 pages long and follow proper APA 7 formatting.
