

Briefing for the Cheetahs: Green Economists and Capital or Money

You already have some useful resources in the folder for the fourth session of the course, which focused on money.

These two books you can find in the FSS library are also useful:

Richard Douthwaite, Short Circuit: L2-128

Richard Douthwaite, The Ecology of Money (a brief introduction to a green perspective on money): L2-125. Also available online here:

<http://www.feasta.org/documents/moneyecology/contents.htm>

Online resources you may find helpful:

How the way we create money creates a pressure for unsustainable growth:

<http://www.greeneconomycoalition.org/know-how/reform-money-new-green-economy>

Some alternative economists talk about money and nankiny:

<http://www.positivemoney.org/videos/economists/>

My paper exploring how local currencies might revive local economies:

<http://www.greenhousethinktank.org/files/greenhouse/home/local-liquidity-inside.pdf>

More about the Bristol Pound:

<http://bristolpound.org/>

A shorter paper by me about the idea of different currencies for different functions:

http://www.greenhousethinktank.org/files/greenhouse/admin/Multi-Layer_Money.pdf