

Feedback on Beatrice Papapietro's draft of final paper

Beatrice Papapietro's paper applies to answer the question of relationship between Eastern extremism and Western feminism through the optics of transnationalism. I found the topic really interesting and extending the feminist approach.

The title of the paper is clear, comprehensive, while still catchy. It is obvious that Beatrice is well acquainted with the field, the literature and the concepts of feminism very well. Just from the draft it seems that the final paper for this course is a part of a wider work (possibly a diploma thesis?) which shows in the research questions and elaborated hypothesis. I would like to know more about how you are planning to study the specific site of encounter – its reflection in academic texts, in media or in the actual performance of FEMEN?
