

Daniel Měšic graduated in International Relations and Energy Security in 2014. Before, he obtained his bachelor's degree in International Relations and European Studies, both at Faculty of Social Studies. He shortly studied economics. In 2014, Daniel Měšic spent one semester at Sciences Po Paris.

In 2013, Mr Měšic started to work as an international energy relations officer at the Ministry of Industry and Trade of the Czech Republic. During his stay in Paris he took an internship at the Permanent Mission of the Czech Republic to the OECD where he focused on the agenda of International Energy Agency. After his return to the Czech Republic and his graduation he became a Government Executive for EU Energy and Climate Policy at the Office of the Government of the Czech Republic where he spent for over two years.

In October 2016 Daniel Měšic left public administration and became Deputy Head of Brussels Office at ČEZ Group. There, he advocates interests of ČEZ Group to EU institutions and other stakeholders.