Is justice important?

What is just?

- Consequentialist moral reasoning
 - The just thing to do is to maximize utility
- Categorical moral reasoning
 - Morality is in moral duty, moral quality of our acts

What is just?

- How do these considerations underline HR?
- What are HR?
- Why do we need HR?
- Who is to define HR?

- What is a human right?
- What is human?
 - Start and end of life?

- Limits and conflicts of human rights

Approaches to Studying Human Rights

- Interdisciplinary approach
 - Law
 - Social (Political) Sciences
 - Philosophy
 - What do they tell us?
- Theory
 - Cases

HR controversies

1. Foundation of rights
2. Conflicts of Rights
3. Generations of rights
4. Relativism versus universalism
5. Human rights and War
6. Animal Rights

Foundations of human rights

Human Rights – brief historical sketch

- Natural-rights based proclamations
 - Rights as an opposition to absolute monarchy
 - Rights as a response to emergent capitalism
- Positivation in national legal systems
 - Secularisation of political thinking
 - Social science and sociology
- Drive towards universality of rights

- International law turn: from morality and philosophy to compliance

Universal Declaration of Human Rights

The Code of Hammurabi (1792-1750 B.C.)

- The oldest surviving text establishing the rule of law
- “to prevent the strong from oppressing the weak and to see that justice is done to widows and orphans”
- Innocence until proven guilty
- BUT, also: harsh laws of retribution

Cyrus Cylinder

- Cyrus the Great
- conquered the city of Babylon (539 B.C.)

Cyrus Cylinder

Cyrus Cylinder

„I announce that I will respect the traditions, customs and religions of the nations of my Empire, I will never let any of my governors and subordinates look down or insult them until I am alive.

*From now on, till God grants me the kingdom favour, I will impose my monarchy on no nation. Each is free to accept it, and if any one of them rejects it, I never resolve on war to reign.

*Until I am the king of Persia, Babylon, and the nations of the four directions, I never let anyone oppress any others, and if it occurs, I will take his or her right back and penalize the oppressor.

Until I am alive, I prevent unpaid forced labor. Today, I announce that everyone is free to choose a religion. People are free to live in all regions and take up a job provided that they never violate other's rights.

No one could be penalized for his or her relatives' faults.

I prevent slavery and my governors and subordinates are obliged to prohibit exchanging men and women as slaves within their own ruling domains. Such a tradition should be exterminated the world over.”*

The petition of rights 1628

- Charles I x Parliament
- X. They do therefore humbly pray your most excellent Majesty, that no man hereafter be compelled to make or yield any gift, loan, benevolence, tax, or such like charge, without common consent by act of parliament; and that no one be called to make answer, or take such oath, or to give attendance, or be confined, or otherwise molested or disquieted concerning the same or for refusal thereof` and that no freeman, in any such manner as is before mentioned be imprisoned or detained;

Declaration of Independence 1776

- We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.
- ...
- That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed,
- ...
- That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government

Human rights and the role of the state

- HR first to keep state out of private life and property
- Then, used by oppressed minorities for recognition
- Recently, to control the state power (against individual abuses)

Duties of states

- Respect human rights (duty of everyone)
 - Protect human rights
 - Provide human rights
 - Aid the deprived
- Respect – refrain from interfering
 - Protect – protect individuals and groups against HR abuses
 - Fulfil – positive action to facilitate enjoyment of basic HR

Post WW2

Do we need justification of HR?

Is law and legal language enough?

Rawls: in a pluralistic world we cannot build our public commitment to human rights on any controversial account of the 'truth' about humanity or the good. We have to return, instead, to shared ideas embedded in the culture of a liberal democracy

Conflict of Human Rights

Conflicts of Rights

- 1. Conflict of HR and values
- 2. Conflict of HR and politics
- 3. Conflicts of 2 human rights

HR and politics

- In democracies, differences which rights should be protected are sorted out via political process
- What if even democratic legislator can push back some rights?
 - > from God, through ruling elite to legitimate Parliament. If not legitimate Parliament, who is the source?
 - How to identify rights so fundamental, that they must NOT be removed or limited by political decision?
 - Hume: collective moral sentiments
 - HR as a result of the creation of law
 - HR treaties as a main source
 - Separation of powers and checks and balances of judicial branch
 - Individual protection v negative decision-making

Generations of Rights

Generations of HR

- 1. Civil and political rights
 - Right to partake on the government of one's country
- 2. Economic and social rights
 - Right to adequate standards of living, education, cultural participation
- 3. Rights of 3rd Generation (group rights)
 - Fraternity, solidarity, group rights = communal aspects of human beings

2nd Generation of HR and positive v negative rights

- Challenges:
 - Enforcement
 - Universality
 - Paramount rights
 - Rights applicable to all classes

- Negative rights = rights of forbearance (e.g. torture)
 - Violation = direct infliction of injury (act of commission)

- Positive rights = securing a right
 - Violation = failure to confer a benefit (act of omission)

- Is there a moral / philosophical difference?

Group rights

- Rights held by a corporate entity that is not reducible to its individual members
- Need to be universal
- Accommodate legitimate interests of oppressed groups
- Right of people to self-determination
- Rights of indigenous peoples
- Right to cultural heritage

7 skeptical questions about group rights

- 1. How do we identify the group?
- 2. What particular HR should the group have? On what grounds?
- 3. Who exercises the group right? (the problem of agency)
- 4. Increased risk of conflicts of rights
- 5. Are the purported group rights necessary?
- 6. Why should we expect group rights to succeed where individual rights have failed?
- 7. Are group rights the best way to protect or realize interests, values and desires of a group?

Universalism versus relativism

Ignatieff – attacks on universality of HR

- Islam
- The West
- Southeast Asia

It is designed for use by scholars and students who seek to test theories about the causes and consequences of human rights violations, as well as policy makers and analysts who seek to estimate the human rights effects of a wide variety of institutional changes and public policies including democratization, economic aid, military aid, structural adjustment, and humanitarian intervention.

Annual Polity scores have been plotted for each of the 167 countries currently covered by the Polity IV data series for the period 1946-2013 (trend graphs are also included with the Polity IV 2010 Country Reports). This version of the Polity Country Trend graphs display periods of "factionalism" and important Polity change events, including autocratic backsliding, executive auto-coup or autogolpe, revolution, collapse of central authority (state failure), and successful military coups. Click on the country of interest in the "Regimes by Type 2013" map directly below (or table following) to view that country's contemporary regime trend (click here for an explanatory guide to the Polity Country Trend graphs).

V-Dem: Global Standards, Local Knowledge

Varieties of Democracy (V-Dem) is a new approach to conceptualizing and measuring democracy. We provide a multidimensional and disaggregated dataset that reflects the complexity of the concept of democracy as a system of rule that goes beyond the simple presence of elections. The V-Dem project distinguishes between five high-level principles of democracy: electoral, liberal, participatory, deliberative, and egalitarian, and collects data to measure these principles.

We are a team of over 50 social scientists on six continents. We work with more than 3,000 country experts and a truly global International Advisory Board. Read more about the work we do here.

IRR: Agreement Among Coders is Key

by Carolina López
July 1, 2014

For years I have been engaged in a quantitative study at Guatemala's Historic Archive of the National Police, or AHPN. (See the blogposts below.) In this study coders collect data on sheets of paper according to criteria established and explained in manuals. But when collecting data, there's always room for human error—this is why the validity of the study hinges on verifying that coders use the correct criteria.

It is important to mention that the mainstay of coding is the use of a controlled vocabulary. A controlled vocabulary gives analysts a framework, or frame of reference, when converting qualitative information into categories without discarding anything, without misrepresenting or misinterpreting all the gathered data. In the case of the quantitative study, applying controlled vocabularies gives analysts tools in the calculation of statistics on locations, actors, events/incidents, or other variables used when trying to answer research questions. 12 Questions about Using Data Analysis to Bring Guatemalan War Criminals to Justice

by Christine Grillo
May 7, 2014

When people talk about war criminals in Guatemala, which war are they talking about?

They're talking about the Guatemalan civil war, which began in 1960 and ended in 1996. That's thirty-six years of civil war. Even though it ended almost two decades ago, Guatemala is still recovering from it. At its simplest, this civil war story was right-wing government forces fighting leftist rebels. But it went deeper than that, of course. The majority of the rebel forces was composed of indigenous peoples, primarily the Maya. (more...)
