BREAKING NEWS ENGLISH VOCABULARY PRACTICE SHEET 1

Put the following words into the correct sentences.

in line   vehement   legislative   ecstatic   smarting   consigned   opting hanging up someones boots   advances   on the verge   relegated   seismic   elongated demise   sacred   curb   retaliatory   brink lawlessness   tit-for-tat   spiraling   bridle

1. The Pope's condemnation and excommunication of lesbian dolphins was   with his previous comments on the topic.
2. Americans are often blinded by their   patriotism.
3. Some professors are just too old to work and should probably   .
4. The Czechs have made many   in the field of highly dangerous explosives.
5. The "better than everyone else in the bloomin' world" attitude in England has diminished since the   of the British Empire.
6. Cows are   in India, but also in America, but for very different reasons. One place worships them alive, while the other place worships them when they are edible.
7. My landlady is   for the Greens this summer rather than ODS.
8. Stacy was so incredibly ugly that she was   to wearing a bag over her head in public.
9. "á" in Czech is just like „a" except that the first one is   .
10. The   wave produced by Krakatoa was felt in Asia.
11. Riding a horse without a   isn't such a good idea.
12. The value of the dollar has been   down against the Bosnian Convertible Mark.
13. Giving the death penalty to people who make and sell pervatin should be on the   agenda for this year.
14. She was   when she was awarded the first international prize for streudel baking.
15. Bart Simpson's buttocks are often   after Homer punishes him.
16. The Vatican City has never been remotely close to being   of winning the football World Cup.
17. "Sleeping with his mother just because he slept with your wife was such a   response!"
18. Tourists should avoid going to Nepal because of the   there now.
19. I am struggling to lose weight and I seriously need to   the amount of fat that I take in.
20. Mr. and Mrs. Tweedy have been on the   of divorce for 10 years, but amazingly they are still together.