* Whether we use was living or lived depends on whether we regard living as an activity or state. Over longer periods it normally 'sinks' into the category of state: 'I've lived (= been) here all my life.' For shorter periods living usually claims our attention as an activity: 'Sheila's living with her mother now, I hear.'

To a European, Chinese sounds strange. 4 5 These almonds taste bitter. 6 Why did she look at me sternly? Try and answer me intelligently. 7 8 You acted in a cowardly way. 9 The boy limped slightly. The little girl looked rather sad. 10 Her mother had slapped her hard. 11 She moved clumsily. 12 13 She walks in an ugly way. But she plays tennis well. 14 The sports committee meets every month/ 15 once a month/monthly. 16 What they said affected me deeply. The room looked nice and cosy. 17 18 The flowers smelt/smelled fragrant. I talked to her in a fatherly way. 19 20 I said that she had behaved in an extremely silly way. She glanced at me slyly. 21 22 It would be advisable to start early. 23 I'm sure her parents will welcome me warmly. 24 You are not arguing logically.
