ISCED

- The International Standard Classification of Education is a classification of education approved by UNESCO in 1976.
- It belongs to the family of economic and social classifications of the United Nations.
- The second version, known as ISCED 1997, was approved in November 1997 as part of an effort to increase the comparability of statistics in education.
- The classification covered two measurable variables: levels (introduced by 7) and areas of education (introduced by 25).
- In the 2011 version, ISCED introduces 9 levels (instead of the previous 7) by dividing tertiary pre-doctoral education into three levels.

EDUCATIONAL REFORM

- 1989 – 2005
- How education changed?

BASIC EDUCATION

- Educational reform

¹ School Educational Programmes are developed by individual schools themselves, based on principles set out in the appropriate Framework Educational Programme. As a tool, the schools can use the Manual for Developing School Educational Programmes ("the Manual"), which exists for each Framework Educational Programme. The Manual contains instructions for the preparation of school educational programmes as a whole, procedures for developing the various components of the school educational programme, and specific examples.

OBJECTIVES OF BASIC EDUCATION

- Create preconditions for pupils to acquire basic learning strategies and motivate them to life-long learning
- Stimulate and encourage pupils to creative thinking, logical reasoning and problem solving
- Guide pupils to engage in efficient, effective, open communication on all aspects of their life
- Develop pupils' abilities to cooperate and to value their own work and achievements as well as the work and achievements of others
- Guide pupils so that they should become free and responsible individuals who exercise their rights and meet their obligations
- Induce in pupils the urge to express positive feelings and emotions in their behaviour, ways of acting and when experiencing important situations in their lives; develop in them sensitivity and responsiveness towards other people, the environment and nature

- Teach pupils to actively develop and protect their physical, mental and social health and to be responsible for it
- Guide pupils to tolerance and consideration for other people, to a respect for their culture and spiritual values; teach pupils to live together with others
- Help pupils to discover and develop their own abilities and skills in the context of actual opportunities and to use their abilities and skills in combination with their acquired knowledge when making decisions regarding the aims of their own life and profession

THE FRAMEWORK EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMMES

- defines initial education as a whole.
- The Framework Educational Programmes devone binding educational norms across various stages: pre-school education, basic education and secondary education (for pupils and students from 3 to 19 years of age)are based on a new education strategy, stressing key competencies, their interlinking with
- educational contents and the application of acquired knowledge and skills in practical life;

CROSS-CURRICULAR SUBJECTS

- Cross-curricular subjects in the FEP BE are subjects related to contemporary present-day issues and represent an important and inseparable part of basic education. They represent an important formative element of basic education.
- This contributes to the pupils' comprehensive education and positively influences the formation and development of their key competencies.
- Cross-curricular subjects represent a mandatory part of basic education. Schools must include all cross-curricular subjects contained in the FEP BE10 into Stages 1 and 2 of education. Not all crosscurricular subjects, however, must be represented at each grade level. It is the school's responsibility to, over the course of basic education, gradually offer pupils all thematic areas contained in the individual cross-curricular subjects.

CROSS-CURRICULAR SUBJECTS

- Personal and Social Education
- Democratic Citizenship
- Education towards Thinking in European and Global Contexts
