HOROSCOPES

2016 Yearly Horoscope: Leo

Overview

Dramatic, generous, and romantic, Leo, you are everyone's dream date... and 2016 isn't any different, except that you could be even more giving.

Jupiter, the gift giver, could outdo himself this year with the beautifully wrapped baubles given for no particular reason. He's in the Second House of you-belong-to-me and there is an abundance of intimacy and good feelings.

If you have one — or if you want one — a love affair emits the glow that films and novels are born from. The majority of the stars hover around the place that signifies your partner zone, and they are flashing a green light with almost any new idea you conjure up.

You could be tempted to totally overlook restrictive Saturn in the place of letting the good times roll. He does keep nudging you in the direction of making a commitment to that long-time love, improving your performance on the job, and keeping a watch on finances.

It will become harder and harder to ignore his nudges this year, especially with the wildcard eclipses doing their job. They are shining their light on the financial houses and reminding you to keep it all real and not take unnecessary risks. Overall, you couldn't ask for a better year to expand on both your emotional happiness and your financial future.
