Seeing Fat

THE UNITED STATES — Recent studies and surveys reveal that fully 75% to 85% of American women suffer from distorted perceptions of their own bodies, seeing themselves as fatter than they actually are. When tested on body image perception, almost all American women now score in ranges that previously were considered to indicate mental illness, thus forcing psychologists to revise the standards by which they define neurotic obsession with body size.

BLACK LIVES MATTER A MOVEMENT, NOT A MOMENT

BLACK LIVES MATTER is the most recent expression of the civil rights movement.

It began in 2013 after Trayvon Martin's killer was found not guilty. Since then, BLACK LIVES MATTER demonstrations occurred throughout the US to protest many black deaths at the hands of the police.
