

Of course, the voiceless combination characters also have voiced and bilabialized counterparts, represented as before by the accompanying NIGORI and HANDAKU, as shown in the following chart:

ぎゃ G YA	じゃ J A	ぢゃ J A	びゃ B YA	ひゃ P YA
ぎゅ G YU	じゅ J U	ぢゅ J U	びゅ B YU	ひゅ P YU
ぎょ G YO	じょ J O	ぢょ J O	びょ B YO	ひょ P YO

This chart is given in machine-made characters in Appendix A.

Note that there two sets of characters for the sounds JA, JU, and JO. As before, the characters used most often are じゃ, じゅ, and じょ. It is best to use these characters unless otherwise instructed.

Use the following exercises to learn to write the combination characters, paying careful attention, as always, to stroke order and direction as shown. DO NOT RUSH. Use these exercises to develop good writing habits and penmanship.

First, TRACE each character several times, then carefully draw the character in the blank squares.
