

TEXT ANALYSIS

TRAJECTORIES OF DEVELOPMENT THEORY: CAPITALISM, SOCIALISM AND BEYOND BY DAVID SLATER.

This text speaks about the most important thoughts on development; they are not so similar, being in counter positions. The first one is the tradition orthodox occidental point of view under modernization premises according with neoliberalism. And, on the other hand a group of heterogeneity Marxist approaches, but that they have some regularity. All of those things are according to a development theory with a global meaning.

I think that the author puts in table the contraposition points of view in the development term with two kinds of definition of that concept that it is not the same for both of them.